

I am fed up with the media giants controlling how I receive my tv channels. I have to pay an extra $130 a year to get my local tv channels over cable because they won't permit me to get the major networks over satellite. Now they are trying the same thing with my XM Radio. They want to limit my access to traffic and weather info. This is bullshit!!! I know it and you guys know it. The question is do you folks have the balls to stand up to the media giants. If I were a betting man, I would suspect you guys don't. Watching Michael Powell act like a puppet on a string when he attempted to give the media giants more control of what we see and hear leaves me very low expectations as it applies to my radio service.
